About Us: Ulman Foundation changes lives by creating a community of support for young adults, and their loved ones, impacted by cancer.

We believe no one should face cancer alone. Through patient navigation, survivorship programs, community engagement, wellness initiatives, advocacy, and Ulman House, we help individuals navigate the practical, emotional, and social challenges that accompany a cancer diagnosis and life beyond treatment.

At Ulman, we believe our impact begins with our team. We foster a collaborative, mission-driven environment where people feel supported, empowered, and encouraged to bring their whole selves to work.

About the Survivorship Patient Navigator (PN) Role: The Survivorship Patient Navigator serves as a clinical and community resource for cancer survivors throughout their survivorship journey. This position provides individualized navigation while helping strengthen Ulman's growing survivorship initiatives across clinical, community, and educational settings.

Working in partnership with Sinai Hospital's Kara Amey Cancer Survivorship Next Step Program and Ulman Foundation, the navigator helps survivors successfully transition from active treatment into long-term survivorship by addressing medical, psychosocial, emotional, financial, and practical barriers to care.

Beyond direct patient navigation, this position plays an important role in developing survivorship-focused programming, strengthening partnerships across the oncology community, contributing to education and advocacy efforts, collaborating with Ulman's Community Programs Manager and other program staff, and ensuring meaningful outcomes are captured through accurate documentation and evaluation.

This role is ideal for someone who enjoys balancing one-on-one patient relationships with program development, systems thinking, community engagement, and continuous improvement. Specific responsibilities of this position include, but are not limited to:

Patient Navigation & Care Coordination

Serve as the primary survivorship navigator for cancer survivors receiving services through Sinai Hospital's Kara Amey Cancer Survivorship Next Step Program and Ulman Foundation. Provide individualized navigation that addresses medical, psychosocial, emotional, financial, and practical needs while empowering survivors to confidently navigate life after treatment.

Responsibilities include:

- Conduct comprehensive survivorship assessments and develop individualized navigation plans.
- Coordinate care across healthcare providers, community resources, and support services.
- Assist survivors in understanding treatment history, follow-up care, surveillance recommendations, and survivorship care plans.
- Facilitate referrals to internal and external resources including behavioral health, nutrition, fertility, financial assistance, rehabilitation, wellness, and peer support.
- Build trusted relationships that promote self-advocacy, resilience, and long-term wellbeing.
- Collaborate with Lifebridge Health and Sinai's interdisciplinary survivorship team and other hospital staff to ensure coordinated, patient-centered care and seamless transitions across healthcare settings.

Survivorship Program Development & Community Engagement

Help strengthen and expand Ulman's survivorship initiatives by identifying emerging survivor needs and developing meaningful opportunities for education, connection, and ongoing support.

Responsibilities include:

- Partner with the Community Programs Manager and other staff to develop and enhance survivorship-focused programs, support groups, educational offerings, and wellness initiatives.
- Foster engagement and lifelong connection among survivors through community-based programming.
- Contribute to the development of survivorship resources, educational materials, and best practices that advance whole-person survivorship care.

Community Partnerships & Advocacy

Serve as a trusted resource and advocate for survivorship care by strengthening relationships across the oncology community and increasing awareness of survivorship needs.

Responsibilities include:

- Build collaborative relationships with healthcare providers, referral partners, and community organizations.

- Represent Ulman through presentations, conferences, community events, and educational opportunities.
- Support initiatives that expand access to survivorship services and strengthen Ulman's leadership in survivorship and adolescent and young adult oncology care.

Documentation, Data & Continuous Improvement

Ensure navigation services and program outcomes are accurately documented to demonstrate impact, inform decision-making, and support continuous improvement.

Responsibilities include:

- Maintain accurate and timely documentation within Ulman and Sinai data systems.
- Track navigation activities, referrals, program participation, and client outcomes.
- Utilize data and participant feedback to improve services, support reporting, and strengthen the overall survivor experience.

Who You Are

You are passionate about helping cancer survivors navigate life beyond treatment and believe survivorship is about more than follow-up appointments—it's about helping people reclaim their health, confidence, and quality of life.

You combine clinical understanding with genuine compassion, balancing individualized patient support with the ability to think strategically about how programs, partnerships, and systems can better serve survivors. You are equally comfortable meeting one-on-one with a survivor, collaborating with healthcare providers, facilitating a support group, or helping develop a new survivorship initiative.

The ideal candidate will bring many of the following qualifications, experiences, and strengths:

- Bachelor's degree in Nursing, Social Work, Public Health, Psychology, Health Education, or a related field.
- Three or more years of experience in oncology, patient navigation, survivorship, nursing, care coordination, medical social work, or a related healthcare setting.
- Strong understanding of cancer treatment, survivorship care, and the long-term medical, emotional, and psychosocial needs of survivors.
- Ability to interpret treatment histories, discuss care plans, recognize potential late effects, and help clients prepare for ongoing medical care.
- Experience connecting individuals with community resources and coordinating care across multidisciplinary teams.
- Exceptional relationship-building, communication, and active listening skills, with the ability to establish trust among survivors, caregivers, healthcare providers, and community partners.
- Strong organizational and project management skills with the ability to balance direct service, program development, and multiple competing priorities.
- Experience using data systems to document services, measure outcomes, and support continuous improvement.
- A collaborative mindset and enthusiasm for working across healthcare systems, nonprofit organizations, and community partners.
- Comfort presenting, educating, and advocating on behalf of survivors in both professional and community settings.

- A commitment to whole-person, patient-centered care that recognizes survivorship extends beyond medical treatment.
